HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate expressed deep regret Tuesday at the death of Sen. Gus P. Verona, D-Northampton, and started plans for special memorial services.

Verona, elected to the Senate last year to fill the seat vacated by new U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., died Monday night at his home in West Bangor.

A committee was appointed to arrange the memorial services both for Verona and former Sen. George B. Stevenson, Senate librarian, who died last week.

Thurmond Talks Over 5 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., set a long-talk record in the Senate's current civil rights debate Tuesday amid signs that the first vote will be delayed until next week. It had been expected this week.

Thurmond, the 12th of 19 Southern senators planning to speak at length against the legislation, surpassed the 1964 record of just under 4 hours set last week by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., and went right on talking.

At 6:30 p.m., Thurmond ended his speech of 5 hours, 40 minutes and immediately called for a quorum. It took 24 minutes to round up the required 51 senators.

Johnson Urges U.S. Compassion

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson called Tuesday night for an America "whose compassion is an example to the other 119 nations of the world."

"Nothing is more important than to maintain this as a land of compassion where the sick of body can find assistance and the sick of heart can find hope," Johnson said in a speech to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

The President began his speech to more than 2,500 persons, assembled in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, with several humorous Irish stories, calling himself "an Irishman by osmosis."

Reds Refuse To Release Airman

BERLIN (AP) — Russian refusal to release an injured American airman increased fear Tuesday that the Soviets plan to take a hard line toward the crew of a U.S. reconnaissance plane shot down in East Germany a week ago.

The Soviets rejected a request by a U.S. Air Force doctor, Capt. John I. Monroe, to transfer the injured flier to a U.S. military hospital. Monroe had been permitted to visit Lt. Harold W. Welch, 24, of Detroit Monday night in a Russian military hospital at Magdeburg, East Germany.

Negroes Continue Hunger Strike

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A civil rights leader raised the prospect Tuesday of "uncontrolled demonstrations" in sympathy with a weary contingent of hunger strikers in the Kentucky House gallery.

The statement was made by Negro attorney Harry McMillin of Louisville, acting chairman of the Allied Organizations for Civil Rights and a member of the Kentucky Board of Education.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Max Konrad, American flying grandfather, crash-landed a single-engine plane on the Greenland icecap Tuesday but was rescued quickly and reported in fine shape.

The 62-year-old veteran of Atlantic and Pacific crossings was ferrying an Italian Proctor P-15 from Italy to Canada when he apparently encountered trouble less than five hours out from his takeoff point at Reykjavik.

DeGaulle Basks In Spotlight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle turned civilian Tuesday, but continued to impress his Mexican hosts.

The French chief of state donned a double-breasted charcoal gray suit in place of the khaki general's uniform he wore on arrival Monday.

Mexicans shouted and cheered just the same as he rushed through a packed schedule that included an address before a joint session of Congress.

De Gaulle launched his second day here with an unscheduled visit to a home trade fair, the largest of its kind ever held in Mexico. He looked over several exhibits and mingled with the crowd.

Accompanied by Foreign Minister Manuel Tello, he continued down the Paseo de la Reforma — much like Paris' Champs Elysees — to the monument to independence called "The Angel." A large crowd watched as he laid a wreath at the base.

De Gaulle broke through a protective line of soldiers to shake hands with a dozen or more Mexicans. He was virtually mobbed and security agents had to come to his rescue.

Mrs. de Gaulle accompanied Mexico's First Lady, Mrs. Adolfo Lopez Mateos, to a welfare project which provides food for hundreds of thousands of students.

AMA Says Labels Won't Halt Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission pondered seemingly conflicting views between medical groups on the value of labeling cigarettes as health hazards.

The American Cancer Society told the FTC that some 100 Americans die each day from lung cancer caused by cigarette smoking and some 500 more are dying daily from other smoking-linked diseases.

Dr. Wendell Scott, president of the society, said Tuesday that cautionary labels on cigarette packages and advertising, as the FTC proposes, would go far in enhancing educational programs against cigarette smoking.

But the American Medical Association has told the commission in a statement it doesn't believe the health hazard labeling is necessary.

It said in part: "With respect to cigarettes, cautionary labeling cannot be anticipated to serve the public interest with any particular degree of success. The health hazards of excessive smoking have been well publicized for more than 10 years and are common knowledge."

"Labeling will not alert even the young cigarette smoker to any risks of which he is not already aware. While labeling

Single Unit Foes Cry 'Socialism'

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

Amid the sobering cries of "socialism" and "government without representation" more than 100 taxpayers in the Pocono Mountain Joint School District last night dedicated themselves to the pursuit of a four-district school system for Monroe County.

The rally was held in the spacious auditorium of the high school in Swiftwater and was called to give the district's taxpayers a chance to hear the arguments and ask questions opposing a single county school unit.

The meeting was tempered somewhat by the week's earlier developments. The last uncommitted county school board member, David Hutchinson, announced he is against the single county unit. The Stroud Union and Pleasant Valley school boards said they would meet to probe the possibility of merger.

Last night's meeting was directed by John Nauman, Dr. Edmund Magann, president of the district's joint committee and a county board member, and Harry Drennen, a retired joint committee member, were speakers.

Questions following the speeches ranged from the possibility of forming a private school to avoid being forced into a single county unit by the Department of Public Instruction.

to accusing the DPI of pushing for socialism.

The audience was told petitions will be circulated and Dr. Magann asked all four district supporters to mount a mail campaign opposing a single district to the DPI, and their state representative and senators.

One person in the audience urged single district opponents to "flood the DPI with enough mail so they will know they are in for some trouble if they try to force us into a single district."

Drennen said education should come first when considering what type system is best for the district but "unfortunately money has to come into it."

He supplied figures which showed assessments for the eight districts comprising the mounting jointure had grown more than any other school district in the county.

"Our jointure has an assessment of $25,218,450; East Stroudsburg, $17,587,153; Pleasant Valley, $5,556,435 and Stroud Union, $21,131,050," he said.

"The longer we can stay away from a one county system, the longer we will stay away from paying someone else's bills," Drennen cautioned.

The ex-county board member reasoned the mountain district was in good financial shape because he fought for a 20-year bond issue instead of a 40-year issue used by the county's other school districts (this saves the taxpayers 20 years of interest payments).

Dr. Magann told the crowd, "The county board has the realistic problem of submitting a plan that will be approved by the Basic Council of Education."

"A four-district plan is excellent but the four-district proposal may not be possible. Stroud Union faced that possibility this week by talking with Pleasant Valley."

The Stroudsburg dentist said, "If Stroud Union and Pleasant Valley agree on a merger, we could then release Eldred Township. If East Stroudsburg (and school district) desired to stand alone, which is doubtful, we would still be in a precarious spot."

"One unit is not the answer to our problems, but if you think Pocono Mountain can come out of this with the lowest tax rate and a weak curriculum you are wrong."

"We have to do something or the DPI will force us into a larger unit. If we don't improve in a four-district plan we will be playing right into its hands," Dr. Magann said.

GOP: Baker Probe Guided From 'Behind The Scenes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans charged Tuesday that "someone" is running the Bobby Baker investigation from behind the scenes.

The charge was voiced by two Republican members after a closed meeting of the Senate Rules Committee broke up without acting on their demand that White House aide Walter Jenkins and others be called as witnesses.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said he recessed the session to consider what to do about "some very serious accusations" which he said the Republicans made on the Senate floor Monday involving his integrity.

Sens. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., disclaimed any attack on Jordan's integrity but insisted to newsmen that the chairman was acting under instructions in what they described as efforts to halt the inquiry.

Scott, who termed the Baker probe "one of the most sordid scandals in recent memory," said the next step evidently is "up to the Democrats and whoever is telling them."

"I am satisfied," Scott said, "that the committee is in recess because the chairman wants to discuss this matter with someone."

Asked if he was saying that someone outside the committee was telling its Democratic members what to do, Scott replied: "I believe exactly that."

He declined to be more specific, but told a corridor news conference he believes that Jordan and the other Democrats want time to "talk to whoever they are getting instructions from."

Scott and Curtis charged in Senate speeches on the eve of what was to have been a showdown meeting of the committee on whether to wind up the hearings, that the Democrats are trying to whitewash the Baker probe.

Democrats replied that the Republicans are making last-ditch efforts to drag out the hearings for political purposes. The investigation has produced evidence indicating that Baker, who was a $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority until he resigned under fire last Oct. 7, had rolled up a fortune he estimated at more than $2 million in numerous outside business ventures.

Scott told the Senate that further hearings would show that Baker and others "used their influence with government agencies" and that the agencies "jumped at his command."

LBJ Urges Pay Hike For Federal Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has urged Congress to vote for a federal pay raise bill—even if its members have to postpone their own $10,000 boost to do so.

The House defeated a $345-million all-inclusive pay bill last week when opponents forced a roll-call vote. Many congressmen were reluctant to go on record during an election year in favor of a bill that included a $10,000 raise for themselves.

Johnson, in letters Tuesday to House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and Senate President Pro Tem Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., said that "if congressmen feel they should postpone increasing their salaries until next year, even though they are most deserving of an increase in pay, there is no reason to postpone equitable and just action for others who serve the government and the nation."

The defeated bill included raises for 1.7 million employees in the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of the federal government. A new measure with such pay boosts but leaving out members of Congress was introduced Monday.

Johnson said that if Congress does not enact the pay bill, it would "impair my efforts to achieve true economy in government."

"It is false economy," the President wrote, "to offer salaries that will attract the mediocre but repel the talented."

A pay bill without the provision for an increase in congressional salaries likely would stand a good chance of passage.

In Athens, a Greek government source said that with the buildup of the U.N. peace force, there was no cause for immediate concern.

He was referring to the fact that Turkey's Parliament on Monday gave Premier Ismet Inönü full powers to take action in the Cyprus crisis. The action came at a time when tension over Cyprus began easing in capitals of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Indicative of the mood in Athens was the fact that a three-day NATO naval exercise involving Greek and Turkish warships along with British, American, French, Italian and West German units ended Monday with almost no comment in the Greek press.

Ireland's New Color, Green Money

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish plunged into their annual bout of St. Patrick's Day jollification, conscious of a bright new stranger abroad in the land of the leprechauns.

The name of the newcomer was affluence. His presence was stamped on merry-making across the Emerald Isle—from the jangling cash registers of Dublin to countryside revels in brightly painted barns.

As usual, the centerpiece of the celebrations was the industrial parade through the heart of Dublin.

More colorful than ever this year, it reflected a booming industry, an accelerating export drive, and cash nestling comfortably in the ordinary man's pocketbook.

Another theme of the celebrations was Ireland's growing status in international affairs. Prominent in the military parades and parades were the soldiers who have volunteered for service with the United Nations peace force in Cyprus.

Over parts of the country, snow, rain and howling wind did its best to mute the holiday fever. Undeterred, thousands in towns, villages and hamlets turned up for rural dances—barred every other day of Lent—and gave every sign of staying with the jig until dawn.

Khani informed Taylor and McNamara he will put into effect in the near future a national mobilization program establishing conditions and terms of service in appropriate jobs for all able-bodied South Vietnamese within certain age limits.

"In addition, steps are required to bring up to required levels the pay and status of paramilitary forces and to create a highly trained guerrilla force that can beat the Viet Cong on its own ground," the statement said.

"Limited but significant" additional equipment for the air force, river navy and mobile forces is proposed.

1,200 Fight Fires In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Twelve hundred men, fighting diminishing but still dangerous winds on the hottest day of the year, checked two disastrous brush fires Tuesday and battled to quell another still raging on a two-mile front.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown toured two fire-ravaged foothill areas after proclaiming Los Angeles County a disaster area because of the multimillion-dollar fires that broke out early Monday morning.

Authorities announced that the two fires a dozen miles north of downtown Los Angeles had been checked, though not contained or controlled, Tuesday morning.

They are in Glendale's Verdugo Hills, where about 7,000 acres were blackened, and San Rafael Hills, with 2,500 acres seared.

The third fire was uncontrolled some 20 miles to the northwest, with 2,500 acres charred. Starting in the Newhall-Saugus area Monday, the fire burned to within about a mile of Granada Hills. County firemen said its hot spot was about half a mile from a crude-oil tank area.

The tanks were scattered, and brush was well cleared away, a county fireman said, but "it could be quite a hazard."

He estimated the wind there at 60-65 miles per hour.

Smoking Clinic

SUNDAY night — 50 persons walked into the Five Day Plan to Stop Smoking Clinic. The people who wanted to quit were quiet . . . humble, perhaps a little frightened.

Monday night — 43 persons attended. They chatted with their friends, spoke of the gruesome cancer film they saw the previous night and hoped they could quit smoking.

Last night — 39 persons attended and the atmosphere was more charged than the depressing first night. Most of the quitters have confidence now. With more than 48 hours between them and the last cigarette, they are getting cocky, can joke about the craves . . . make cracks about the smell of stale cigarettes and begin to worry about how much weight they'll gain.

Scranton Denounces UC Scare Tactics

HARRISBURG (AP) — House Republicans moved steadily ahead Tuesday with the administration's unemployment compensation proposal while Gov. Scranton called a special news conference to denounce "irresponsible scare tactics" allegedly employed by its opponents.

Scranton accused organized labor of deliberately attempting to mislead the public by saying that the U.C. program is the forerunner of "right to work" legislation in Pennsylvania.

"I want to make it unmistakably clear that I am opposed outrightly to right-to-work legislation," he told newsmen summoned to his private office.

He said leaflets allegedly being distributed by unions around the state on the "right to work" issue "shows that their whole case (against unemployment compensation revision) has disintegrated into promotion of irrelevant and irresponsible scare tactics."

Earlier House Republicans, taking advantage of the momentum generated by the Senate, gave preliminary approval to the U.C. legislation and fixed Thursday for the start of final debate.

But Democrats, seeking to sidetrack the issue, made plans

10,000 Hear Kennedy In Scranton

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy greeted by enthusiastic crowds estimated at more than 10,000 persons, said Tuesday night "no problem weighs heavier on the conscience of free men than the fate of millions held in iron captivity."

Kennedy, on a whirlwind tour, spoke at two St. Patrick Day dinners, participated in ground breaking ceremonies for a school named after his slain brother and inspected the federal building here. Authorities estimated at more than 10,000 the total crowd who greeted him despite rain and snow.

In his address, and at the school ceremony, Kennedy made frequent references to his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy.

Addressing the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick of Lackawanna County, Kennedy called on fellow Irishmen to extend a hand to those "who struggle for freedom today as Ireland struggled for a thousand years."

Kennedy traced the history of the Irish struggle for freedom and the trouble of the Irish immigrants in America years ago.

A cross-check of each list showed that, in the main, the organizations were talking about different groups.

The dispute revolved around the Scranton Administration's program which has been passed by the Senate and is now before the House.

Business supports it, labor opposes it.

I quit Sunday night. I'm usually a three pack a day smoker.

The last 40 hours have been miserable but I think the battle has been worth it.

There are all kinds of motivating reasons why people quit smoking.

Last night, my friends at the clinic were asked to fill out a questionnaire that will be kept confidential and used for research.

The reasons, if you could peek at the applications must have run the gamut, "I'm afraid of cancer . . . I hear that smoking and heart attacks are linked . . . I'd like to save the money I burn up . . . I'm short winded and I want to play tennis this summer . . ."

The program in Stroudsburg sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist, assumes for the most part that people want to quit for to open debate Wednesday with the submission of numerous amendments.

After an initial attack on the program during Tuesday's brief House session, the minority Democrats spent the rest of the day in caucus making assignments for debate.

Majority Leader Kenneth B. Lee said there would be no attempt to shut off debate, that the Democrats could carry it on as long as they wish.

"There will be no gag rule," Lee said. "We will start debate Thursday morning and adjourn about 5 p.m. that day. We'll continue with debate on Friday and, if necessary, continue into the evening or resume on Saturday."

He said the proposal will be discussed at a caucus Wednesday and that there will be some test of sentiment "although we'll not make a formal head count at that time."

Business, Labor Clash On UC Truth

HARRISBURG (AP) — Business and labor accused each other Tuesday of being loose with the truth in the latest skirmish over unemployment compensation.

At issue was the position of several local industrial development corporations as reported in separate surveys by the Pennsylvania State AFL-CIO and the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce.

A cross-check of each list showed that, in the main, the organizations were talking about different groups.

The dispute revolved around the Scranton Administration's program which has been passed by the Senate and is now before the House.

Business supports it, labor opposes it.

The program in Stroudsburg sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist, assumes for the most part that people want to quit for health reasons. The shocking films . . . gory statistics . . . constant reference to premature funerals is predicated on the fact that people want to quit smoking to stay alive.

As I left, last night's clinic, one of my colleagues asked me if I had any withdrawal pains.

I did.

She then asked, why I quit smoking.

Frankly it's probably for the wrong reason. I'm not afraid of heart attacks or cancer.

I just can't stand to be hooked on anything whether it's cigarettes or lemon drops.

I can't see why an inanimate object like a cigarette should govern me who is equipped with a free will.

Now I only hope it is a strong free will.

Scranton Visits Needy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "Boy you sure look like Gov. Scranton," said James Long.

"I am Bill Scranton," replied the distinguished visitor.

"I'll vote for you if you run for president," Long replied.

"Don't worry about that," said the governor. "I'm not here for votes."

Scranton paid an unannounced visit Monday to two needy families in South Philadelphia. Long, his wife and their six children were one of them.

Long, who has been out of work for a year because of illness, showed Scranton three bedrooms in the house and apologized because the beds had not been made.

"Don't let that worry you," Scranton told him. "Maybe they aren't made in my house, either."

The second and last stop Scranton made was at the home of Mrs. Irene Divers and eight of her 10 children who live in a two-bedroom house in which part of the ceiling has fallen down.

As Scranton departed, Mrs. Divers confided in him: "You know, this makes me nervous, your coming and all."

The governor promised to tour other areas in the city sometime again. He summed up his feelings this way:

"I am deeply shocked by the conditions these people are forced to endure especially in shelter. Something is wrong somewhere. I want to look into it further. The landlords should be forced to make improvements."

"It is obvious to me that there are violations of the building code, too, and these problems certainly are acute. I plan to see for myself other areas of Philadelphia, where conditions are even worse than I witnessed on Monday, and I hope something can be done."

Scranton's visit apparently was sparked by a telegram from a group known as the Concerned Citizens for Public Assistance. The group had urged him to see for himself "the deplorable conditions under which public assistance families are forced to live."

The guide is entitled, "Discover the New Pennsylvania."

The guide will be published in a regional edition of the Saturday Evening Post this spring, the governor said.

Testimony indicated that Blake had written some $3,000 worth of bad checks after deserting his wife and three children in penniless condition.

Water Gap Chamber Urges 4-District School Plan

DELAWARE WATER GAP—A four-district plan of school reorganization is strongly urged by the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce because of its "immediate and future financial, educational and administrative advantages."

In a letter to The Daily Record the chamber said it endorsed the four - district plan at a recent meeting after making "an exhaustive study performed by the educational committee (of the chamber) with the aid of both the state chamber and the State Board of Education."

The chamber quotes the state board's guidelines to reorganization as saying, "Emphasis should be placed upon dedicated responsibility of local school officials, rather than upon the mechanics of reorganization."

"It appears the intent of the General Assembly to improve this public school system is very strong . . . and reorganization is a means to such an improvement and not an end in itself."

"Therefore, all districts, whether reconstituted or not, shall have the responsibility of conducting the best possible program for the students who are now enrolled."

Most Efficiently
The chamber maintains these principles could be achieved most efficiently for "parents and taxpayers" by a four-district plan.

The report indicates the amount of state school subsidies to local schools would be more secure under its endorsed plan. "Each of the reorganized districts (except Stroud Union) would be immediately eligible to receive the supplemental payment of $800 per teaching unit."

The individual districts in a four - unit plan would be more likely to receive the same basic state payment than would a single county school district. The basic state payment is computed on the "ratio assessed valuation of a district to the number of students in the district. The chamber maintains the assessed valuation in a four - district plan would be unchanged while a single county unit would have a higher assessment."

Decrease in Staffs
"An additional savings would result from a decrease in clerical, secretarial and other administrative staff, such as auditors, treasurers, etc.," would be possible under the endorsed plan, the chamber's report maintains.

The report further states every educational advantage the Department of Public Instruction envisions under a single county unit is also available under the four - district plan.

The employment of a curriculum staff — one of the department's major arguments for a single unit — "can be set up through a cooperative function of the local school boards rather than the DPI."

The report took issue with a statement made to The Daily Record by Dr. Richard A. Giboney, director of Curriculum development for the DPI, who claimed — under a countywide district — teachers could be employed to travel to schools within the district offering specialized subjects.

"In Stroud Union this is done to some extent to provide what is needed to meet the curriculum requirements as presently set up. This could therefore be done with the four - district plan . . ."

"If the proper guidance is provided the improvement in the educational program of a four - district organization is also unlimited given the dedicated men needed to direct each of these districts," the report said.

The chamber maintains the cooperation that would be required in a four - district plan could be achieved if "the parents and taxpayers are aware of their requirements."

Because of administrative shortcomings the chamber "favors the four - district plan as the evolutionary process in the improvement of the educational institutions in the county and disapproves of the radical revolutionary process . . ."

The chamber points out individual districts in a four - district plan would benefit from streamlining the administrative organization in two ways.

Streamline District
"It will gain in administrative efficiency, streamlining the district organizations and in the process eliminating the inefficiencies and bottlenecks of the old organization."

"Second, each district will retain the services of at least nine of its most capable and dedicated directors of the local school boards out of the 35 or 40 now serving, each of whom is intimately familiar with the myriad problems . . . of his own district."

The report also offers the opinion that "the educational interests of the individual areas can be best served by the action of their local school boards working jointly . . ."

In this manner the emphasis will be "placed upon dedicated responsibility of local school officials as directed by the State Board of Education . . ."

In reference to the DPI claim that county schools are not offering a comprehensive education to their schools the report states:

Ability To Pay
"The chamber is fully aware there are school systems offering exceptional programs but if the reasons were made known, it would be revealed that this is possible because of the ability of the district to pay for the extra services and facilities offered."

The chamber says these districts are the cream of the crop and for a while the county's districts might have to be satisfied with a less expensive education while the economy grows and the districts strive to meet the educational needs of their community.

He was employed as a journeyman steamfitter and gas and electric welder by the Calco Chemical Co., Bound Brook, N.J.

Mr. Hockin was a veteran of World War I and of the Baptist faith.

He was born in Bangor, a son of the late Thomas and Margaret Pritchard Hockin.

Mr. Hockin was a member of James W. Husted Lodge 1068, F&M, New York City; Lehigh Consistory, Allentown; Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540 VFW, Stroudsburg, and the Steamfitters and Pipefitters Local 655 Stroudsburg.

which established the commission's name. The section stated the name of the organization is the Monroe County Planning Commission.

Donald DeOtte said, "I have a letter from the county commissioners which tells me I am a member of the county planning and zoning commission. Which are we?"

After a short discussion, John Mills, chairman of the commission, told Joseph Lisicky, executive secretary, to check the resolution passed by Monroe County Commissioners on Feb. 13, 1964. This is the resolution reactivating the county commission.

The second article to come under discussion was the section stating the number of members needed to constitute a quorum, and the number of members it will require to be present and carry on official business.

The commission agreed on the recommendation of Atty. Russell Mervine, to have the section read that three members will constitute a quorum but that no business, except a motion to adjourn, can be conducted unless there are five or more members of the commission present.

In other business Chester Miller, program chairman, was told to contact James E. Hertz, community planning and recreation specialist in the Department of Commerce, to arrange a date for him to talk to the county organization.

Miller told the meeting that he had talked with Hertz and that April 8 is an open date.

Miller was told to try to set up April 21 as the date. If Hertz is not free on that day plans were made to schedule him for April 8.

Lee Hobaugh, planning consultant for Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., spoke briefly to the meeting.

He pointed out that their first duty is to form a comprehensive plan for land use. He noted that this could not be done without professional help.

He told the meeting that it had to work closely with the political subdivisions in the county and aid them where it can.

Eastburg's 'Santa Claus' Optimists 'Friend Of Youth'

SCOTRUN — Louis Urban last night received the first annual "Friend of Youth" testimonial award from the Optimist Club of the Poconos.

Floyd Kellogg, club president, made the presentation at a dinner meeting in Tabard Inn.

For many years Urban decorated his home at Berwick Heights in East Stroudsburg at Christmas time and for the past three years he and his wife stood outside in all kinds of weather and welcomed people who have come to see the display and talk with Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. Santa, as they are known, have purchased the red suits, beard and all other necessary accessories. But this is a small expense when one looks at the over-all picture.

Louis starts putting up the display shortly after Thanksgiving and then after the new year starts taking it apart and storing it away for the next year.

18,000-Plus Candy Canes
In the past six years the East Stroudsburg family has been decorating the home, acting as Mr. and Mrs. Santa, and has distributed more than 18,000 candy canes to children who stop to talk to Santa.

Not once has the family asked for or accepted help. They have worked together on the project and as they both have said, "We will continue to work together on this every year."

Louis has said that both he and his wife are repaid when people come by to see the decorations and when the children in the cars tell "Santa" what they want for Christmas.

Kellogg said, as he presented the plaque, "The Optimist Club is very proud, and pleased, to give you this first annual award. Your work, your devotion to a labor of love, follows the aims of Optimism."

Firemen In Creek Kept Busy

MARSHALLS CREEK — Two grass fires in rapid succession made yesterday afternoon a busy one for the Marshalls Creek Fire Co.

The first call came in at 12:45 from a grass fire on the property of T. E. Terrell, on a back road off 209. About 20 acres were burned over before firemen were able to get the fire stopped. They were back in the firehouse at 2:40. The fire was started by burning rubbish.

Ten minutes later, at 2:50, the second alarm came in for a fire at the property of Durling Ace, Sr., RD 1, East Stroudsburg.

He had been burning up an old car with an acetylene torch which ignited the grass. About one acre was burned over. The firemen returned to the firehouse at 3:15.

Bobby Baker's Rights

Pennsylvania's two senators engaged in sharp argument on the Senate floor Monday on whether the Bobby Baker investigation should be continued.

Republican Senator Hugh Scott, who is running for re-election this fall, has been making political hay from Baker's wheeling and dealing and close association with Democratic President Johnson, who is also running next fall.

"This investigation is embarrassing to members of the Democratic party," Scott said in the Senate.

"The majority members are not watching the facts, they are watching the calendar. The November elections are approaching and they are determined to put this skeleton back in the closet."

Democratic Sen. Joseph Clark defended the investigating Senate Rules Committee's Democratic majority against the attacks of Scott, a member of the committee's Republican minority.

We agree with Scott that conflicting testimony about the role of President Johnson, White House aide Walter Jenkins, and Bobby Baker in the now famous life insurance-stereo set kick back deal should be clarified, verified and made public.

Rumors and charges are often more damaging than a full and honest disclosure of the facts. Democratic attempts to hide these facts only increase public suspicion. But we disagree with Scott on the proper method of bringing all the important information to the public.

Congressional investigating committees with television coverage and obvious political maneuvers, in which Scott excels, have proven since the McCarthy days that they violate basic American legal rights and rules of fair play.

Nowhere is this violation more clear than in Scott's insistence that the Senate Rules Committee further investigate the charge by a tax accountant that his signature was forged on a federal tax return of Bobby Baker.

This is a criminal charge, clearly outside that gray area of wrongdoing and impropriety which the Senate Rules Committee originally set out to investigate.

This charge is the kind of accusation which should be investigated by a grand jury and heard in a court of law, not in a political circus.

Legitimate public thirst for the truth about the Bobby Baker case should be satisfied without violating the rights of the accused.

The Poverty Program

While we doubt that President Johnson and the nation will reach his goal of "total victory" in a "national war on poverty," his $970 million "poverty program" is full of good and necessary proposals.

President Johnson's emphasis in his message to Congress was rightly on the fast-growing ranks of unemployed and unskilled young people in America today. His programs would:

1. Create a new national job corps of 100,000 young men rejected as unfit for drafting into armed services and school dropouts. The President gave these details:

"They will be drawn from those whose background, health and education make them least fit for useful work. Those who volunteer will enter more than 100 camps and centers around the country.

"Half of these young men will work in the first year on special conservation projects to give them education, useful work experience and to enrich the natural resources of the country.

"Half of these young men will receive in the first year a blend of training, basic education and work experience in job training centers.

"These are not simply camps for the underprivileged.

"They are new educational institutions comparable in innovation to land grant colleges.

2. Create a new national work-training program which will provide work and training for 200,000 men and women between 16 and 21.

"Hundreds of thousands of Americans badly need the experience, the income and the sense of purpose which useful full or part-time work can bring," the President said.

"Vital community activities from hospitals and playgrounds to libraries and settlement houses are suffering because there are not enough people to staff them. We are simply bringing these needs together."

This program would be developed through state and local government and non-profit agencies.

3. Create a new national work-study program to provide part-time jobs for 140,000 young people who do not go to college because they cannot afford it.

This program would help students to work their way through college.

All these proposals are still in a vague state.

They could lead to a great national boondoggle.

But they attack the roots of the problems of poverty, education and unemployment today, and should be given careful study, planning and a chance to work.

The Pennsylvania Story

Favored Areas

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — The good people of Erie, Reading, Williamsport, Bradford, Washington (Pa.) — or almost any other community in the state for that matter — most certainly are to be congratulated for their benevolence; you're going to build a new $5,000,000 hospital for the people of Ashland!

How come? It's very simple — really.

"The State owns and operates ten 'general' hospitals (just like your own local community hospital — only you alone pay for and support yours) in ten 'favored' areas of the state.

One of these state-owned 'general' hospitals ('general' that is, not mental) is just plain worn out, so what is the State doing about it?

Instead of permitting the Ashland area folks to build, support and operate their own hospital (as you do, and as they do in more than 180 other communities throughout Pennsylvania where there are local hospitals) — the Scranton Administration has decided to build the folks of Ashland a spanking, brand new $5,000,000 hospital to replace their old one!

Who's paying for it? As a state-owned and operated facility, who else but the general taxpayers of the state, who must not only build this select facility — but also their own local hospital.

Certainly, a plaque of some sort should be placed in the lobby of the new hospital when it is finished, stating simply:

"We are indeed indebted to the people of Pennsylvania for giving us this fine, new hospital. It is indeed regrettable you too cannot have your hospital built and paid for by the State."

You should see the architect's drawing for the new $5,000,000 Ashland State General Hospital; chances are good it will put your own hard-earned, scrimped-for, community hospital to shame!

The new 200-bed hospital is a wonderfully modern facility in every sense. Six stories high, it will be of brick construction — with charming limestone trim.

"The upper floors will contain completely equipped laboratory and x-ray suites (we're quoting the General State Authority which is building the hospital for the Department of Public Welfare), while the operating suite, occupying an entire wing, will consist of four completely outfitted operating rooms having the newest sterilization equipment."

And now you backwoods build — your own — hospital folks, think of this that "you" are supplying in the new hospital at Ashland (again quoting from the General State Authority): "a pacing room for expectant fathers!"

Just think: at Ashland State

General Hospital and the other nine such state-owned hospitals, the folks there don't have to worry about raising money to either build or operate their hospital like you do! The State — that is, you taxpayers throughout the State — do it for them.

This coming fiscal year beginning July 1, for example, you (lucky) taxpayers are going to shell out $11,200,177 just for the operation of these ten state-owned hospitals (as well as support your own hospital, of course!)

You don't believe it? Check with your own member of the State Legislature (either Representative or Senator); he'll confirm it — in fact it can only continue with his permission.

When does "your" new hospital building at Ashland start? That's a good question but the General State Authority (of which Governor Scranton is President) has scheduled March 25 for receiving construction bids for your new Ashland State General Hospital.

Why do these ten favored areas with their own state-financed hospitals persist today? Ask your local lawmaker — or the Governor. They are the only ones who can change the status.

(And if you're careful — they just might let you watch your new $5,000,000 hospital going up!)

The Allen-Scott Report

Aid Vows Hit

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary McNamara is running into a storm of sharply critical Senate challenges of those "all-out aid" announcements he tossed about in South Viet Nam.

Insistent demand is being voiced that he fully explain exactly what he meant, any secret commitments he entered into, and by whose authority.

Basis of this anvil chorus of disapproval is the contention that McNamara's pronouncements and mystery — shrouded plans may lead to embroiling the U. S. in nuclear war with Russia and Red China.

To get at the bottom of all this, a determined move has been launched to summon McNamara for detailed accounting of just what is afoot.

In letters to Senators J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, formally requested a joint session "to find out just what he (McNamara) did promise, and what his authority was to, in effect, commit the United States."

Vigorously supporting this demand are leading members of both committees, among them Senators Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, John Williams, R-Del., Clifford Case, R-N. J. A number of other senators also are backing this proposal.

Citing particularly McNamara's declaration in South Viet Nam that U.S. aid "will from now on be total, unlimited and without conditions," Gruening wrote Senators Fulbright and

Russell that this sweeping commitment "might well lead to a war in which the authorization of Congress would, under the Constitution, be required."

Yet Congress, Gruening noted, is still very much in the dark as to just what is going on and what is contemplated.

"There appears to be no doubt that Secretary McNamara has given the South Vietnamese the impression that the U.S. is committed to stay there until the war is won," wrote Gruening. "This is most unfortunate because it will make it difficult for President Johnson to make a decision that might run contrary to Secretary McNamara's promises."

"After all, foreign policy is made by the President of the United States, and not the Secretary of Defense."

"I therefore urge that Secretary McNamara be called before a joint session of the Foreign Relations Committee and the Armed Services Committee to ascertain just what he did promise and what his authority was to, in effect, commit the United States."

Foreboding Warning — Congress' increasing concern over the ominously deteriorating South Viet Nam situation and demand for a greater voice in administration policy there was bluntly voiced in an unnoticed but significant Senate discussion.

Pointing out that the U.S. has poured more than $2.6 billion into South Viet Nam in the past 10 years with no sign of any results, Senator Gruening asserted that the protracted anti-Communist conflict can only be won by the South Vietnamese themselves. If they don't have the will to win and be free, then it's futile for this country to carry the heavy burden.

"The United States must start with one basic truth that should be constantly reiterated," said Gruening — "the fight in South Viet Nam can be won only by the South Vietnamese. If they don't have the heart to fight and to win, the sooner we face that fact the better off we shall be."

"It is high time to reassess our policy and ascertain why we are in Viet Nam; why we should continue to be there, and why we should continue to sacrifice the lives of American boys for people who will not fight for themselves. If there is to be an all-out war there, it is for Congress to declare such a war. It was most unfortunate that Secretary McNamara spoke so freely."

"It would have been much better if he had kept quiet, returned to this country and reported to the President and let him make the commitments."

Senator Morse, who has long contended the U.S. should get out of South Viet Nam, heartily echoed these views. The militant Oregonian reiterated his blunt contention that the loss of American servicemen in South Viet Nam is "plain murder and there is no justification for the death of a single American boy in that country."

"There is a great deal of monkey business in South Viet Nam that the public does not know about," said Morse. "It's time that Congress proceed to find out all the facts and disclose them to the American people. As a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, I do not propose to vote another dollar for South Viet Nam."

"I was opposed to our going in there; I have been against our staying in; and I am for our getting out immediately." Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Mass., senior Republican member of the Armed Services Committee, echoed Senator Gruening's contention that only the South Vietnamese can win their struggle.

The citizens of ancient Athens had a method for banishing anyone they considered a threat to the state. Once a year each citizen could write the name of his "candidate" on a piece of pottery and deposit it in a public polling place. If a person's name appeared on as many as 6,000 ballots, he was banished for 10 years.

The Greeks called these bits of pottery ostraka, and the banishment of persons was called ostracism. From ostracism came the English word ostracism — the shunning of anyone by a group.

Dear Abby

It's A Tie

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do gentlemen really prefer blondes? Do blondes have more fun? Why do men act so silly over girls with hair that is bleached until it looks like straw? Wouldn't they rather see a natural redhead, or a girl with shining black hair, or chestnut-colored hair with golden highlights? Why do men rave over a girl just because she has blonde hair? I would like to know the answer to this, and so would a lot of other women.

NO DYE HARD

DEAR NO: Men like hair that is (a) clean, (b) well-groomed, (c) fragrant, (d) shiny, and (e) soft. If it is all of these things, men don't care whether it's black, brown or gray. I know a girl who has been both blonde and brunette, and she didn't have any more fun as a blonde.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and another couple went to a dinner show at a night club. Our budget requires that we budget carefully. My husband and I ordered the least expensive dinners, and one drink apiece. The other couple ordered the most expensive dinners and they each had four drinks. When the waiter brought the check, the other man just divided it in half and said, "Your share is $19.90." The floor show was on at the time, so my husband said nothing and paid up. On the way home he told the other man that he had some money coming, and explained why. The other man became indignant and said, "If you can't afford an evening out, you should stay home." Of course he was wrong, but how could this have been avoided?

FRIENDSHIP RUINED

DEAR RUINED: When you ordered, your husband should have asked the waiter to make up separate checks.

DEAR ABBY: Last week I was a witness in court. As I approached the witness stand this 65- or 70-year-old judge shouted at me, "Say, if you've got a testimony in this court, speak loud and with respect!" Then he fell back in his chair, put his feet up on his desk and said, "I'm talking, he suddenly jerked his feet off his desk, sat erect in his chair and shouted at the top of his voice, 'SPEAK LOUDER.' Do you think I should send this judge a bed and a hearing aid?"

WITNESS

DEAR WITNESS: "Judge not, that ye be not judged." Matthew 7:1.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Doctor I'd Like To Know

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our family has been exposed to a friend who has just been notified that he has active tuberculosis. We have not heard much about tuberculosis in the past few years. Has it been completely wiped out?

We had chest x-rays taken at the Board of Health and were told that nothing is wrong, but we are still afraid the disease might develop later on. Can we be vaccinated or immunized against tuberculosis, just like against other contagious diseases?

H. R., Ohio

Dear Mr. R.: Your letter brings up a matter of great importance. It highlights the need to emphasize that tuberculosis is still a prevalent, and active, contagious disease.

Not Necessarily So

Having been exposed to an active case of tuberculosis does not mean that you or your family will necessarily contract the disease. The chances are that you will not become infected. Nevertheless, x-rays of the chest should be reassuring.

Gene Brown

About Town

Rationalization

The winter will go faster if you spend more evenings showing your neighbors all those home movies and slides that you took last summer of your family. It is also a pleasant way of severing relations with relations.

Clinical examination by the family physician, too, is of great value in detection of tuberculosis, and is always advisable as a routine, sensible health measure.

At present, there is no universally acceptable form of immunization or vaccination against tuberculosis, although there are effective treatments.

Productive Members

Since the discovery of antibiotics and the sulfa drugs, patients who might otherwise never have recovered are now once again healthy, productive members of the community, due to the use of these medications.

Tuberculosis is a preventable disease. It is also, in most instances, curable. Complete cure depends primarily on early detection. For this reason, yearly x-rays of the lungs and regular medical examinations are recommended as precautionary measures.

Although the advancements of medical science have contributed greatly to the control and cure of tuberculosis, and have minimized the threat of this disease, we should never casually disregard the gift of health. It is still true that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

George Dixon

Self-Hypnosis

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — Politicians and political pundits keep hypnotizing themselves into trances in which they interpret the outcome of the New Hampshire primary election. It may be, however, that in their hypnotic dreams they are seeing the wrong things.

The New Hampshire results may not translate into what a 1 happen in the primaries of California, Texas, Illinois, Oregon and West Virginia. It may presage that we are about to launch an attack on North Vietnam.

If Goldwater, Rockefeller and Nixon all show up at the same time in South Viet Nam it could mean they are going to write-in ambassador Lodge to stay there. As is well-known, Mr. Lodge is already in South Viet Nam so he wouldn't have to go anywhere to become significant.

I am never one to knock political mumbo-jumbo, because it is part of the American way of life, but if the self-hypnotists don't soon snap out of their trances they'll have us all in nightmares. If Goldwater, Rockefeller and Nixon all showed up simultaneously in Key West, with pencils sharpened to write-in the name of Lodge, we couldn't rule out an attack on Cuba.

If, in addition, Brig. Gen. Goldwater were reactivated, it could be interpreted as the first shot in the battle of Armageddon.

If Goldwater, Rockefeller, Nixon and Lodge all lost their way in a trance, and arrived together in Paris, instead of California, it could be translated as meaning they will bury their differences and all pull together for General De Gaulle.

Without straining themselves any more than they have been, the political soothsayers could interpret this as signifying that De Gaulle intends to transform himself into all the leading Republican contenders.

This would transmogrify him, irrespective of time and space, into the senator from Arizona, the governor of New York, the former Vice President, and the former Ambassador to the United Nations. No one, of course, would dream of including Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

On the other hand, the outcome of the New Hampshire primary may mean that Lodge of Massachusetts will have to come home to West Virginia and campaign if he is to carry the Oregon primary, instead of letting it go by default to Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, William Scranton of Pennsylvania and Earl Warren of California.

As is well-known (that's how the political pundits preface the unknown) De Gaulle wants a recount on this hemisphere. He isn't satisfied that Wolf beat Montclair fair and square on the Plains of Abraham, and he has never recognized the Louisiana Purchase.

As is well-known, De Gaulle wants to renegotiate the Louisiana Purchase in terms of the latest Dow Jones averages and the 1961 cost of living indexes, formerly indices.

Everything in this group primary campaign seems to be in danger of blowing up, or at the least, mistiming. National headquarters for Goldwater here revealed the other day that it has installed an IBM machine, into which the workers with Goldwater on the brain are feeding all the senatorial speeches.

The idea is that they can press a button, and out will pop anything their man ever said, anywhere, anytime.

Youthful Scientists

Tomorrow young men and women who get little newspaper credit show their wares to interested residents of Monroe County.

We're referring to the embryonic scientists at Pocono Mountain Joint, East Stroudsburg Joint, Stroud Union High and Pleasant Valley Jointure.

The event will be the annual Monroe County Science Fair at the East Stroudsburg Armory.

So often we overlook these young men and fellows in our evaluation of the educational products we turn out in Monroe schools.

Often — times the tendency is to rate school systems on athletic teams, band outfits, choral groups and dramatic societies. Too often we overlook the main force — the curriculum, such as English, languages, mathematics and science.

New Flood Storage Records Set At 3 DRB Reservoirs

PHILADELPHIA — New records for flood storage were set last week at three Corps of Engineers' reservoirs in the Delaware River Basin.

At the Francis E. Walter Dam in the upper reaches of the Lehigh River, about 6 miles above White Haven, Pennsylvania, the reservoir was 60 feet above normal.

About 4½ billion gallons of flood water were contained in the reservoir which has a flood storage capacity of 35 billion gallons.

Rose 45 Feet

During the 24-hour period from 8:00 a.m. on 10 March to 8:00 a.m. 11 March, the water level in Walter Reservoir rose 45 feet — from elevation 1310 to 1355. Maximum pool elevation is 1450 feet above mean sea level.

Prompton Reservoir on the Lackawanna River, 4 miles above Honesdale, rose 8½ feet above normal. Nearly 1 billion gallons were stored in the reservoir, which has a flood storage capacity of 17 billion gallons.

Jadwin Reservoir on Dyberry Creek, 1 mile above Honesdale, rose 30 feet above normal. Over 1 billion gallons of flood waters were trapped in this reservoir, which has a capacity of 8 billion gallons.

Near or just over bank-full stages were experienced in the Lehigh River downstream from Walter Dam and in Dyberry Creek downstream from Jadwin Dam. However, until all records are analyzed, damages prevented at downstream locations cannot be estimated.

Blue Angel Pilot Killed

APALACHICOLA, Fla. (AP) — A pilot of the Navy's famed Blue Angel flight team was killed Sunday when his parachute failed to open fully after he ejected from his crippled jet.

Naval authorities said Lt. George L. Neale, 29, stationed at Pensacola Naval Air Station, was killed west of Apalachicola. The flight demonstration team was returning to Pensacola from an air show at West Palm Beach.

Witnesses said a companion followed him down and continued to circle Apalachicola to attract attention. Neale's F-11 A Grumman Tiger missed a house by about 50 feet, a city fireman said.

Neale is survived by his widow, Donna, who lives at Pensacola Naval Air Station, and his mother, Mrs. Katherine D. Neale of Pittsburgh.

Somebody actually stole one.

We were tickled pink to hear that somebody wanted a Volkswagen Station Wagon badly enough to go out and steal one.

Not long ago we couldn't give them away.

So when Martin Carlson reported his loss to the police, we took it as a triumph.

In its own way, the VW Station Wagon is one of the world's best getaway cars.

You can escape north or south of the border. (The VW engine can't freeze up or boil over because it's cooled by air.)

You can go farther in a VW than in any police car (24 mpg is our average).

You have 21 windows to spot anyone who's tailing you.

And it carries more load (1632 lbs.) than the biggest wagon you can steal.

Unfortunately, the whole theory blew apart when Mr. Carlson found his VW abandoned in the very spot he had left it.

Maybe everyone isn't ready for it, after all. Not even crooks.

Just Between Us—

by Bobby Westbrook

An inveterate window-looker, outer doesn't need very much to watch. I can watch the way the wind-blown water glints in the sun as contentedly as watching the eager golfers tune up their drivers at the driving range across the creek.

I can watch the way last year's leaves make whirlpools in the breeze or this year's robin makes a big production of pulling a worm from the ground.

But when the bulldozers and tree cutters move into my front yard that makes watching practically imperative. The bulldozing and tree-cutting is clearing the way for six new motel units. Meanwhile, up at the clubhouse, the ground has been cleared for the new pro shop and more parking space.

All of which are encouraging signs of Spring which I ordinarily would be cheering on enthusiastically. This year I view them with mixed emotions because when the golf comes, I'll have to go, and I've enjoyed every minute of it.

It's been a mighty cozy place to spend the winter, and I have a certain amount of sympathy with an old bear who has been hibernating all winter. Sure it's great to be out in the big wide world again, but there's something to be said for the cozy warmth of a nice safe den where you don't have to worry about anything.

I've loved flood-lit parking at night, ploughed driveways after snowstorms, and garbage collection; and I'm not at all sure I want to go catching my own rabbits again, so to speak. It's going to come hard to go catching my own news again, too, after a month when everything has been happening at once and all I've had to do is try to fit the news into the space. But maybe both the bears and I will get more ambitious once we get our blood circulating.

Winning Ways With Food, Cellarways And Garden Rooms

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist
Stroudsburg—I'd be willing to bet that Sally Ferrebbee has the prettiest cellarway in town! You should see what this girl has done with wallpaper scraps and paint to make a spot that is usually an eyesore look like a magazine picture. The wallpaper has big bunnies sitting on breadboards and against it a piece of bright blue pegboard holds pink cleaning utensils. There's even pink carpeting on the stairs.

That's our gal, Sally, whose warm and vibrant personality has made her a favorite of WJPO listeners is reflected in every room of her lovely home. A tasteful eye for decorating is just one more talent we can add to Sally's long list of talents.

Her kitchen is not large but efficient and combines the charm of an old home with the luxury of modern conveniences. There's cupboard space galore for one whole wall goes almost from the counter to the top of the high ceiling, but she's cut off the bottom of them to make a display space for her favorite old dishes. From her kitchen the Ferrebbees can walk down three or four steps to their new garden room which is like having a little of the outside world right inside your house.

One of the advantages of the garden room is that while guests are busy talking, Sally can listen in on the conversation as she's repairing something scrumptious to eat. For example, this pretty green dessert that she recommends for spring parties.

Sally's Lime Chocolate Chip Parfait Pie
Prepare an 8 or 9 inch pastry shell. Heat 1 1/2 cups of water to boiling in a 2 quart saucepan.

Remove from heat. Add 1 package lime gelatin dessert and stir until dissolved. Add 1 pint of vanilla ice cream, cut into wedges, to hot liquid, stir immediately until dissolved.

Chill until the mixture is thickened, but not set, which takes about 20 to 30 minutes. Fold in 1/2 cup grated semi-sweet chocolate. Turn into cooled, baked pie shell, chill until firm, 15 to 25 minutes. Top with whipped cream and grated chocolate, if desired. This recipe can also be used without the chocolate, as it is delicious as merely lime parfait pie, topped with a wedge of lime.

As you look out Sally's kitchen window or the window wall of the garden room you feel as if you're way out in the country, miles from nowhere. Her husband, John, has done a wonderful job of making Braeside Ave., East Stroudsburg, seem the country for the landscaping is lovely and in the Spring it must be a beautiful sight to see. The whole family must enjoy sitting on the stone terrace and admiring the beauty of their lovely grounds.

While the two children and husband, John, are busy in the garden, Sally's whipping up their favorite casserole which she says is a marvelous dish to put together in a hurry or on the days when a casserole is a must. Makes plenty, too.

Ferrebbee's Dinner In A Dish
1 pound ground beef
1 large onion
1/2 green pepper
1 can whole corn niblets
1 can tomatoes, drained
Simmer sliced onion and pepper in shortening. Add beef until partly cooked. Alternate beef, corn tomatoes in layers in baking dish. Season to taste. Top with bread crumbs (add the drained liquids if you prefer and top with crumbs). Bake 1 1/2 hour in a 350 oven.
They all love applesauce cake, too, and promise that once you've made it you will have to make it again and again. The secret of the success, Sally says, is the use of oodles of those huge Muscat raisins. They are moist and sticky, and really make a wonderfully old-fashioned cake that needs no icing.

Favorite Applesauce Cake
1 1/2 cups shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 beaten eggs
1 cup thick, unsweetened applesauce
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 cup Muscat raisins
If you like lots of raisins, use 1 1/2 cups. Thoroughly cream shortening and sugar, add eggs and beat well. Add applesauce, then sifted dry ingredients; beat smooth and fold in the raisins. Bake in waxed lined 8 inch square pan in moderate 350 oven for 45 to 60 minutes. This cake will remain moist several days in closely covered container. It can be iced if desired.

For state occasions, for luncheons and for everyone and anyone who adores crabmeat, Sally highly recommends this recipe: Sally and John's Deviled Crab.

1 pound crabmeat
4 hardboiled eggs
1 large onion
parsley
1/2 pound butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 pint cream
salt and pepper to taste
Mix crab meat, whites of eggs, onion, parsley, salt and pepper. Melt butter, add flour, cream and egg yolks. Mix all together. Bake about 20 minutes in brisk oven.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

The other Saturday our Tea Room pleased its customers by once again serving a special of Chinese food... and Blanche Mackey was dressed for the occasion in an elegant brocade shift of brilliant, jewel-like colors. When I commented upon it, she surprised me by saying, "We had these in our accessories department, but I guess no one ever saw them. At least, they weren't selling, and since I've begun wearing this today Pete tells me we've sold them all."

This just proves once again that Wyckoff's has so many thousands of items even those of us who work here cannot truthfully say we have seen all of our merchandise. Certainly, anyone who wanders through our store as often as I in quest of the new and interesting, should have known we sold these Oriental shifts. But I didn't. And I am positive that had the public seen them, they would have sold the minute they came in, they were so very lovely and so very reasonably priced.

Mentioning in advance of the Chinese Dinner that Blanche planned an exotic menu of egg rolls, fried rice, etc. cetera, I made the facetious remark that I was also interested in the Chinese fortune cookies, but that the fortunes never seemed to come true. Well... this is the remarkable message conveyed in my cookie the following day: "You should plan to enjoy another Chinese dinner soon."

Talk about a commercial! You can't tell me BLANCHE herself didn't write that one! But how did she overlook adding, "at Wyckoff's, of course!"

I do wonder if President Holt Wyckoff knows exactly how much work is involved in tallying the referral slips our customers are receiving from salespeople throughout our store and dropping into the silver-covered box in our second floor Millinery Boutique? He offered prizes to the three employees whose names appeared on the greatest number of slips, and this means quite a chore of tabulating, Velma Post and I can tell him. We began the task Saturday, and are swamped.

At the moment it seems that Souvilla Bowman, and Cora Albertson of Lingerie; Jean Heller, Stationery; and Ann Williams, of the Tea Room are out in front in the race for a new Easter bonnet and two 5.00 gift certificates. But the figures could change any minute.

What a thrill it was, after the appeal on yesterday's radio program for apparel for twin girls of 5, their brothers 6, 7, and 8, to receive from a listener a handsome, size 8 suit all neatly dry-cleaned and pressed, along with a box of rainwear, shirts, undershirts, and even apparel for the mother. The mother, incidentally, is a woman approximately my size, according to Mr. Wyckoff, which means she wears either a 14 or 16.

Another woman listener called and offered her own brand new Easter hat to the mother, because "I have lots of other hats, and I don't really need this one at all—I just bought it because it was pretty and I couldn't resist it." Still another woman, a newcomer to this area, offered other boy's clothing. A third gave me 1.00 toward socks.

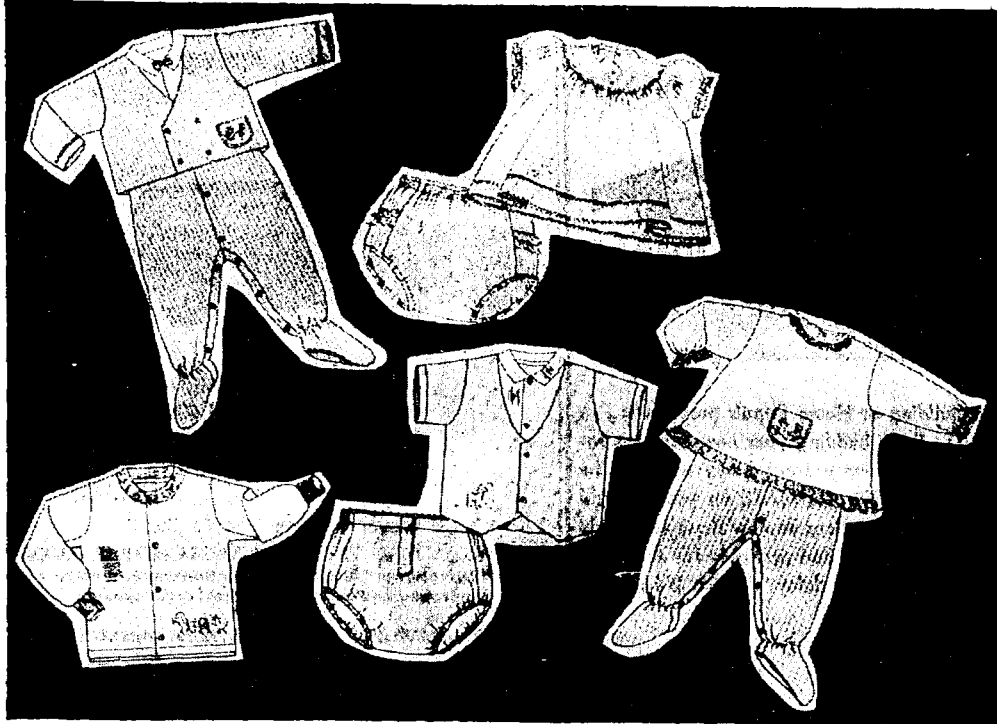

All of it is needed, believe me... these youngsters need everything from the skin out. As for the little girls—they have not fared so well with donations, so if you can help them, please do! Right now their clothes are not adequate for them to even attend Sunday School on Easter.

Aerial Mapping Of Tocks Island Project Gets Underway

By Stan Schaffer
Daily Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — The first phase of the Tocks Island Project became reality Monday between 10 and 12 a.m. when a team of Philadelphia aerial photographers left the North Philadelphia airport in a twin engine commander to shoot pictures of the area between Depue and Poxono Islands for the Delaware River Dam site.

A spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the contract for photography with Aero Service is for $43,740.

The Depue and Poxono Islands area lies in the Delaware River between Shawnee-On-Delaware and Bushkill. There are at least six fairly large islands included in this stretch of water.

Edward P. Kenney, assistant public relations director of Aero Service Corporation, a division of Litton Industries, said snow on the ground had prevented earlier flight photography.

U.S. Secretary Stuart Udall said that both Congress and President Johnson approved $250,000 appropriation to begin engineering and designing on

Murphy Vows NY No Rights Arena

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy vowed this week that the Police Department will not permit responsible civil rights leaders to "turn New York City into a battleground."

"No one will be allowed to turn neighbor against neighbor," Murphy said in a speech at the annual communion breakfast of the police Holy Name Society.

"All attempts to use people as the tools of any bloody blueprint will fail," Murphy said, adding: "We will not be panicked by propaganda nor influenced by unlawful threats."

The commissioner directed his warning primarily at three Negroes: rebel Black Muslim leader Malcolm X, who booted the parent Black Muslim sect to establish its own movement; Jesse Gray, leader of the Harlem Rent Strike; and Herb Callender, chairman of the Bronx Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality.

Downs Gets New Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frederick H. Downs Jr., of Scranton, was appointed as chief probation officer of Quarter Sessions court. It is a new office.

His appointment, announced by Administrative Judge Vincent A. Carroll, was part of the probation department reorganization plan, and resulted from studies which began three years ago.

Downs' appointment is effective immediately. He is presently executive director of the Welfare Council of Lackawanna County.

School Boycott Support Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — Support fell off Monday for the second school boycott here, but 267,459 pupils missed classes during the peaceful demonstration for racially integrated and better education.

Many of the school-skipping youngsters joined a civil rights march led to the Board of Education offices in Brooklyn by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Negro Democrat.

The board, however, vowed to stick to its own plan and timetable for eliminating racial imbalances in enrollments "despite opposition from those who believe that it goes too far or not far enough."

Corn ferriers got their name from their ability to squeeze into rock piles for foxes and wildcats.

Col. Elmer P. Yates, chief of Philadelphia district, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the actual site of the dam will be determined by the end of this year.

"We are just getting started because we just got this money," Col. Yates emphasized. "The first construction contract will be advertised in the summer of 1967," he added.

President Johnson has requested an additional $450,000 in his 1965 budget, according to James F. Wright, the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) director.

Other plans for this year will involve the taking of borings, sismatic surveys, and a dethiometer study to plot the profile of the river bed.

The Tocks Island area will cover 60,000 acres in the national recreational area and have a 100 mile shoreline which will result from the dam. This will create a 12,000-acre multi-use reservoir.

Shoots 4,000 Acres
One of Aero's specially outfitted mapping aircraft will shoot the photos from about 9,000 feet with a precise air mapping camera. From this altitude, the camera, equipped with a six-inch lens, is capable of covering 4,000 acres in a single photo, the spokesman said.

Scale of the photography will be one inch equals 1500 feet. It is estimated that some 130 photos, each nine inches by nine inches in size, will be required to blanket the area. The photos will overlap, much like shingles on a roof, so that later they may be viewed in complex stereoplottting instruments, he added.

Also with these precise plotters, a re-created aerial view of the terrain can be seen in realistic third dimension. The plottter operator is then able to translate the photos into detailed topographic maps, he said.

In addition, the topographic maps show the rise and fall of hills and valleys with a series of lines (called contours) which are connected at points of equal elevation. These detailed maps — approximately 30 in all — will be prepared at a scale of one inch equals 400 feet. They will show a contour interval every five feet, plus streams, buildings, roads, transmission lines and other similar features, the company spokesman explained.

He said, although aerial mapping does not eliminate completely the need for ground control (required in every map making project), it does reduce substantially the number of control points needed. After the photography is obtained, Aero ground surveys will use the photos in the field to aid in establishing a network of both horizontal and vertical control.

Cross Section Data
Also, cross section data for the proposed dam site and reservoir will be plotted simultaneously and punched into IBM cards. The Corps of Army Engineers will use the cross section information for various computation purposes connected with design and location.

He said that in addition to obtaining new aerial shots, Aero Service will prepare a photo mosaic, or photo map. The mosaic, which is an assembly of individual air photos into one large photograph, will be produced from existing pictures previously obtained by Aero in the spring of 1962.

He explained that the mosaic will be made at a scale of one inch equals 1,000 feet. Also these mosaics will be used by the Army Corps of Engineers for general planning studies.

To date no contracts for the borings operations have been awarded. However, bids should open about March 24. The contracts would then be awarded in about 10 days, explained a spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers.

At Dam Site
He added the boring would probably begin the latter part of April or May. The borings, supplementing those taken in 1958, would be taken at the dam site between Depue and Poxono Islands.

At this time the DRBC has a set of rules of procedure which define the DRBC's regulatory powers. The DRBC was established in 1961 by an interstate federal compact to oversee the development of water resources within the basin.

Its members are governors William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania; Nelson Rockefeller of New York; Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey; Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware and Secretary Udall.

James F. Wright, executive director of the four-state commission said, "It is our earnest hope and belief that the facts concerning the immense recreation benefits for tens of millions of persons will result in approval of this far-sighted proposal."

Congressional approval would provide the same outdoor recreation benefits for city dwellers of this part of the nation that have long been enjoyed in sparsely populated regions, he explained.

Wright said one of the immediate concerns is development of a comprehensive flood prevention program.

"We are about to enter a contract with the U.S. Geologic Survey for the preparation of a flood atlas for two flood damage stretches — the Schuylkill River near Philadelphia and the Delaware main stem from the Eastern-Phillipsburg area to Belvidere, N.J.," he said.

The study will take about 18 months, he added.

Wright said he was hopeful it would lead to enlightened action among local officials in promoting compatible flood plain uses with the commission.

Steady Progress
He said the commission has made steady progress on a number of projects which are part of a long range master plan for development of the basin. He said 17 watershed projects are either in the construction or planning stages in the four states and applications are pending on eight others.

Construction of the dam and reservoir should begin in late 1966 or early 1967; construction should end about 1972; and the complete project should be in full operation about 1974.

The problems that the Tocks Island project will generate for the Poconos and parts of New Jersey will stem largely from the varying impacts the Tocks Island project will have on the region.

For instance, how will the residents of the five county, tri-state Tocks Island region cope with the 7,000,000 visitors that the Tocks Island National Recreation Area (TINRA) will attract annually?

Obviously, the region will cope with the enormous influx of visitors, and benefit from their visits, only through proper planning. As the Water Resources Association Delaware River Basin (WRA-DRB) has noted on numerous occasions, the National Recreation Area might become a regional and national asset if the fringe of the recreation area is not planned and zoned to prevent cheap and tawdry hot-dog stands, souvenir shops and the like.

The DRB-WRA said: "It is very encouraging, therefore, that the Monroe County Planning Commission has been reactivated. It is to be hoped that Pike County, the only one of the five counties in the Tocks Island region now without a county planning commission, will soon create its own county wide planning commission or explore the possibility of joining Monroe County in creating a Joint Monroe

Pike Counties Planning Commission similar to the one that is now so effectively serving Lehigh and Northampton Counties.

In the case of Bushkill (which will be inundated by the reservoir), the residents of that small, unincorporated village will soon have to decide if they wish to relocate as a political entity.

"If the decision is to relocate, other questions will be raised that will have to be fairly quickly resolved. Where should the village relocate? What government assistance is available to aid in the relocating?"

To answer these questions and the ultimate question: Do the residents of Bushkill wish to relocate as a village? This will be the purpose of a meeting to be held at the firehouse in Bushkill April 16 at 8 p.m.

The Bushkill meeting will have two major objectives: (1, to bring the residents of the Bushkill area up-to-date on the status and schedule of the Tocks Island project; and (2), to give the residents of the area information they will need to help them decide where they want to relocate the village of Bushkill to a new town site.

Representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and other Federal and State agencies with operating and planning responsibilities will speak at the meeting. Representatives of all agencies that will be involved with the Tocks Island project are expected to be present to answer questions.

The WRA-DRB, as the sponsor of the meeting, has extended an invitation to the public to attend. Residents of the Bushkill area were especially urged to attend.

Taxpayers Urged To Pick Form That Serves Need

PHILADELPHIA — Kenneth O. Hook, Director of Internal Revenue Service for Philadelphia District, yesterday announced the following helpful hints for taxpayers.

He suggested that the taxpayers choose the form that best suits their needs.

Form 1040A is the easiest form if a taxpayer is eligible to use it. One of its special features is that on incomes less than $5,000, Internal Revenue Service will figure the tax for you, he said.

He also urged using this form if:

1. Gross income was less than $10,000, and
2. It consisted of wages reported on withholding statements (Forms W-2) and not more than $200 total of other wages, interest, and dividends, and
3. You take the standard deduction (10 per cent of income) instead of itemizing deductions.

Hook said Form 1040 is the regular two page form which may be used by any individual (except a non-resident Alien) regardless of the source or amount of income.

Then too, theft and casualty losses may be deducted to Federal income tax returns under certain conditions, Hook said.

Must Have Signature

He explained that the federal income tax return is not complete until you have signed it, many Federal tax returns are still being received unsigned.

He added, "While we assume that failure to sign is just an oversight, we cannot process such returns and must set them aside for special handling."

An unsigned return automatically delays any refund, whether check or savings bond. On the other hand, if the taxpayer has sent in a payment for additional tax, he cannot be given credit for the payment until the return is completed.

Director Hook urged taxpayers to double-check their returns for signature before mailing. One signature is required for a single person; two for a married couple filing jointly. The signature should be written in the same way that the name is printed at the top of the return. Or, as he put it, "Print at the top, sign at the bottom."

Taxpayers interested in obtaining more information on Federal income tax and returns are urged to contact the Internal Revenue Service.

The draft-free comfort of electric heat is the feature Zimmermans consider most important.

"After living with electric heat, you don't want any other system"

Mr. and Mrs. Gene G. Zimmerman of Kutztown report on their reactions to flameless electric heat

After enjoying the advantages of electric heat for a year and a half, the Zimmermans have concluded it isn't necessary to pay premium operating costs for the best heating method. And this is just one of the reasons why they're so well pleased with their choice.

"We enjoy convenience of electric heat with changeable weather," says Mrs. Zimmerman. "It is clean, comfortable and maintenance-free."

Mr. Zimmerman adds there are "No large exposed heat pipes or ducts to mar appearance of the basement recreation room ceiling."

The Zimmerman home is one of over 2300 electrically heated homes in this area. These satisfied customers have discovered it is ideally suited to needs of modern families. If you are planning to buy, build, remodel or replace your present heating system, you'll find it worthwhile to get the full story on electric heat. See a Reddy Kilowatt Recommended Electric Home Heating Dealer, or call your nearest Metropolitan Edison Company office.

Every woman appreciates the cleanliness of electric heat! It's one of the special benefits, as far as Mrs. Zimmerman is concerned. Even little Loni notices that dolly's clothes stay bright and new-looking!

"We like being able to turn up the thermostat in the bathroom, when there is no heat needed in the rest of the house," Mrs. Zimmerman says. Separate thermostats in each room make it possible to keep every part of the house at the exact temperature desired.

As young Craig Zimmerman drifts off to sleep, his father adjusts the thermostat for gentle, draft-free comfort all night long. When there are children in the family, safe, quiet electric heat is a particularly wise choice.

There's An Electric Heating System Just Right For Your Home

Wall panel heaters have heating coils located behind a decorative grill. Small fans may be used with this thermostatically controlled unit.

Electric furnaces provide compact central heating systems which can be combined with central air conditioning for year round use.

Heat pump heats home in winter, cools it in summer. It's automatically reversible and maintains any desired year-round temperature.

Baseboard units heat by both radiation and convection. All surfaces are warmed evenly, and control is by individual room thermostat.

MAIL CALL AND RANDOM NOTES

Dear Ken,

Thank you for the article on Bud Leininger and the isometrics. This form of exercise has proven to be a valuable tool not only in preventing injuries but they are also particularly important in the rehabilitation phase of many of the injuries incurred in our college athletic program.

As a physical therapist and physical educator I would like to point out that the physical education faculty members of East Stroudsburg State College are quite often concerned about the aspect of obtaining "maximum results with the minimum of effort" in order to obtain physical fitness.

I think it should be pointed out that strength alone is not the sole factor in preventing injury or creating a person that is physically fit. Things such as endurance and cardio-respiratory capacity play equally important roles in most of the situations demanding physical activity.

In order to build strength, endurance and cardio-respiratory capacity it is generally recommended that the isometric form of exercise be used (that form of exercise where a joint will move). Common examples are the persons who actively engage in badminton, tennis, or the like, instead of sitting in a chair carrying out a six-second maximum isometric muscle contraction.

There is a definite place for both types of exercise in the athletic and home fitness program. But can we, as members of this community and of this nation, allow ourselves to build strength with minimum effort because we simply don't have the time or energy to become people that are more physically fit?

Sincerely,
Gary L. Soderberg, RPT
Assistant Professor Of Physical Education

(Ed. Note:—In fairness to Bud Leininger, we should note that he mentioned that strength "is only one of four phases of conditioning." He also told us the other three were endurance, speed and agility. He added that "isometrics help develop speed and it will help agility in that it gives you more power." These were points that space limitations did not allow us to print. But apparently, according to Mr. Soderberg, they were more important factors than we thought.)

Harold (Jule) Jacobsen has been elected president of the East Stroudsburg Little League. Other officers are Sam Kupp, vice president; Al Dellenzio, secretary-treasurer; Dick Lessig, player agent; Sam Stauffer, assistant player agent, and Stauffer and Lessig, grounds-keepers.

A fifth team, the Eastern Poconos, will be added to the Night League this year and will be managed by Ray Steele, Jr., and Charlie Litts. Other managers are:

Counterman's—James Smith and Bob Goldy; Methodist—Wayne Metzger and Don Metzger; East Stroudsburg National Bank—John Barnes, and R. C. Cramer—Norm Evans.

Registration will be held for all boys on Saturday, April 4, and Saturday, April 11, from 9:30 a. m. to noon at the Little League field. All boys must have a birth certificate and be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Boys who played last year, either in the minor league or Night League, are also urged to register. Age requirement is from 8 to 12, inclusive.

Next meeting of the league will be March 30 at 7:30 p. m. in East Stroudsburg High School.

Grapefruit Roundup

Koufax Continues Pitching Mastery

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Five brilliant innings by Sandy Koufax led the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday before 4,202 at Al Lang Field. It was the first Grapefruit League game of the season for the world champions, who played in Mexico City over the weekend.

Koufax struck out seven, walked none and allowed two hits in pitching the first five frames. He turned a 4-0 lead over to Bob Miller, who was tagged for a two-run homer by Frank Thomas in the sixth. Jim Brewer gave up an unearned run in the ninth.

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals ended a Cincinnati Red winning streak at three games and boosted their own to four in a row Tuesday with a 4-2 victory.

Harry Fanok, Dick Hughes, Dick LeMay and Barney Schultz teamed up to limit the Reds to seven hits, one of them a solo homer in the eighth inning by Veda Pinson.

FT. MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, after blowing a three run lead, beat the Washington Senators, 5-4, in 10 innings Tuesday.

The Pirates went into the eighth inning leading 4-1, but three singles and a pair of walks against Don Schwall enabled the Senators to tie the game. The Pirates won it in the 10th when Smokey Burgess and pinch hitter Jerry Lynch singled and Dick Schofield hit into a force out at second.

Ted Savage hit a two-run homer for the Pirates in the seventh.

Vernon Law made his first pitching appearance of the spring, going three innings for the Pirates and allowing four hits and a run.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox had an open date in their spring training exhibition schedule Tuesday and went through a two-hour batting drill at Lapeze Park.

Manager Al Lopez said he was not concerned about the fact that Dave Nicholson had only one hit in 10 official trips thus far and indicated it would not be long before Nicholson would get his timing.

Nicholson, who had batted sixth last year, is now batting in the No. 4 spot because of the ## Percentage In Baseball?

NEW YORK (AP) — Every body's heard about percentage baseball. What is it? Does it really work?

Yes, says a prominent scientist and former college baseball player who has just completed a study of the subject and come up with the conclusion that it's worth about 319 extra runs a season to the normal big league team.

In fact, added Earnshaw Cook, percentage baseball can convert a 500 team into a pennant winner.

Cook, who reveals the findings of his investigative staff in the latest issue of Sports Illustrated, lists the key factors as a scoring index, an improved way of measuring a player's offensive skill, and base-scoring equations, dealing with percentages of scoring from each base with none, one or two outs.

Four Steps

Four run-making steps, says scientist Cook, are:

1. Never sacrifice. That, says Cook, is worth 50 extra runs a year. The reason: A base-scoring equation shows that the chance of scoring from first base with none out is .4276; from second base with one out, .4505. Thus, by sacrificing, a player's chances of scoring have improved only .0209, or about 2 per cent. This seems trivial when measured by the fact that the worst batters reach base about 25 per cent of the time.

2. Use the Bobby Bagan lineup. That is, instead of the traditional system of batting the best hitter third and the power hitter fourth, bat them in order of excellence. This, says the scientist, is worth 11 extra runs.

125 Runs

3. Evaluate and play the eight most productive hitters according to the so-called scoring index. This is an intricate means of evaluating a hitter not based on batting average, RBI or slugging average. Do not play the hitters. This is worth 125 runs a year.

4. Platoon pitchers. Start a relief pitcher and replace him the first time he is scheduled to bat. Let the second pitcher work about five innings and hit for himself if his team is more than two runs ahead. Except in rare cases, no pitcher should be allowed to bat more than once and, late in the game, never. This strategy would be good for 133 runs.

Chicago Banking On Banks

Third in a series of major league prospect stories.

CHICAGO CUBS

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs may logically expect Ernie Banks to do them a lot more good this year than last. And they may have considerable confidence in their pitchers, who had the second best staff earned-run average in the National League a year ago.

But after the personal and physical loss they suffered in mid-February, when second baseman Ken Hubbs died in a plane crash, the Cubs may have trouble doing as well as they did last year.

They finished seventh in 1963 but, for the first time in 17 years, managed to win more games than they lost.

Need Replacement

Now they need a replacement for a second baseman who set two major league fielding records and became league Rookie of the Year in 1962. And uncertainty over their defensive posture up the middle doesn't end at second base. They're still not sure who their center fielder will be.

Banks, who caught the mumps last year and batted only .227, came to camp this spring weighing 192 pounds, about seven more than a year ago. Ernie usually plays basketball and handball during the off-season but, on doctor's orders, laid off last winter.

First Base Job

Banks, who has an 11-year major league batting average of .283, will start the season at first base. Also assured of starting assignments are shortstop Andre Rodgers, third baseman Ron Santo, left fielder Billy Williams and right fielder Lou Brock.

absence of third baseman Pete Ward who is recuperating from a back injury.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The Minnesota Twins bombarded Yankee pitching for 14 hits, five of them the extra base hit variety as they topped the American League champions, 7-2 Tuesday.

The Twins' long-range barrage included two doubles, two triples and a home run off Whitey Ford by Jimmy Hall. Despite the bombardment Ford was the most effective of the Yankee pitchers. Al Downing and Ralph Terry were touched for the first six runs.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Home runs by Felipe Alou and rookie Rico Carty powered the Milwaukee Braves to an 8-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Tuesday.

Alou also hit a two-run triple as the Braves won their third straight exhibition game after losing their opener to the Washington Senators. The home runs matched the total in 17 games played in Municipal Stadium last spring, and were the first hit to left and center fields, respectively.

Veteran Bill Hoft and rookie Donny Ribant and Clay Carroll scattered eight hits. The Braves piled up 13 hits off Ron Tompkins, Lew Krausse and Tom Sturdivant, exploding for four runs off Sturdivant in the eighth.

The Braves trimmed their spring squad to 39 players, including holdout catcher Joe Torre, by sending seven rookies to their Denver farm club. They are pitchers Wade Blasingame, Larry Maxie, Jerry Hummel, Dick Smith, John Braun and Ken Nixon and outfielder Vince Ferguson.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — First baseman Norm Cash batted in five runs Tuesday, to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-2 win over the Philadelphia Phillies in their exhibition game.

Cash batted a three-run homer in the third and a double in the ninth. Don West had three of the Bengals' 13 hits off veterans Cal McLish, Johnny Kuipstein and rookie Len Clemen.

Klipstein was effective, yielding one hit in the middle three innings.

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox had an open date in their spring training exhibition schedule Tuesday and went through a two-hour batting drill at Lapeze Park.

Manager Al Lopez said he was not concerned about the fact that Dave Nicholson had only one hit in 10 official trips thus far and indicated it would not be long before Nicholson would get his timing.

"I started out with the Mets and wound up with the World Series."

This was no dream. It was Joan Hodges sitting in her Brooklyn living room and telling how a wife feels when her husband changes jobs and winds up in the other league.

The husband is Gil Hodges who, after 15 years as one of the most popular Dodgers, got caught in baseball's expansion and finished his playing days with the lowly Mets.

He played only 54 games the year the Mets started, and last year his 39-year-old legs acted up after 11 games and the Mets put him on the disabled list to make room for youth.

Hoped To Coach

Hodges had hoped to remain in baseball as a coach, somewhere. Nobody had approached him until one day last May when general manager George Selkirk of the Washington Senators called Johnny Murphy of the Mets and asked permission to talk to Hodges as a possible replacement for Manager Mickey Vernon.

This is the way baseball operates, and permission usually is granted.

"I thought Gil was kidding the day it happened," recalls Joan Hodges. "He came home and said 'What do you think about my managing the Washington Senators?'"

"Cons on, Gil," I said, "stop fooling around. I don't even know the Washington Senators."

Born in Brooklyn, Joan knew only the National League teams after 15 years of married life and anyway she was born in Brooklyn and over there people saw an American League team only when the Yankees played in the World Series.

"We have one hour to make up our minds," George Selkirk will call for my answer," Gil said. Of course, he took the job.

"When the season was about to end Gil asked me how I'd like to go to Los Angeles to see the World Series games there. 'Sure I'll go,' I told him 'but I'll have to foot for the Dodgers.'"

"Honey," Gil said, "I'm an American League now. After all you like to eat don't you?" "So I told him I'd foot for the Yankees only because they were in his league. You know how Gil and I feel about the Dodgers."

"Well along about the fifth inning I nudged Gil and Mr. Selkirk and I said 'I'm a nervous wreck; I can't stand it any longer. I've tried very hard to root for the Yankees and now I hope you don't mind, I've got to root Sandy (Koufax) in.'"

"By all means go ahead," said Mr. Selkirk.

By now everyone knows Sandy Koufax beat the Yankees, 2-1, in the final game and became the World Series hero.

Can't Wait

Now Joan Hodges can't wait for Easter vacation. That's when she'll take her four children (Gil 14, Irene 13, Cindy 8 and Barbara 2) to Pompano Beach, Fla., to see papa for the first time as a spring training camp manager.

"I might even go over to watch the Yankees," says Mrs. Hodges. "I hear they train only three miles away at Fort Lauderdale. If I go I'll apologize for rooting against them."

Patient 'Livelier, Stronger'

Rozelle Battles Crises With Optimistic Outlook

NEW YORK (AP) — There has been one crisis after another for the National Football League during the past 12 months but Commissioner Pete Rozelle insists the patient has emerged "livelier and stronger than ever."

"Public interest in the game is at a peak — more people than ever are coming out to the games," the slender young executive said Tuesday. "We have just signed the richest television contract in our history."

"I regard these things as a vote of confidence."

Another in a steady series of crises was passed Monday when Paul Hornung, high-scoring halfback of the Green Bay Packers, and Alex Karras, 250-pound defensive tackle of the Detroit Lions, were reinstated after 11 months' suspension for betting on games.

The prosperous league was hit during the past year by other incidents which threatened to tarnish its image of integrity.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts, was accused of betting on games but was exonerated after an investigation. Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, a gargantuan tackle for the Pittsburgh Steelers, was found dead in a Baltimore apartment from an overdose of narcotics.

The NFL became the target of widespread criticism when it failed to follow a national trend and cancel its regular schedule on the Sunday following the Nov. 22 assassination of President Kennedy.

Then there recently was an uproar when plans were announced — without NFL official sanction — for the televising five league games on Friday nights which would have been in competition with college and high school contests.

"These were supposed to be in addition to the games sold in a $282 million, two-year contract for the regular season television package signed earlier with the Columbia Broadcasting System."

"Yes, we got a lot of letters of criticism," Rozelle acknowledged.

"Postponement of the Kennedy games would have posed numerous problems and, besides, hockey teams and some college football teams felt it was all right to go ahead and play."

"The Friday night television matter grew out of its proper proportion. We never had arranged our 1964 schedule. The hassle was premature. The deal never materialized."

Hornung and Karras were suspended for betting on games — up to $500 in Hornung's case — but never against their own teams.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

How're these...

for openers?

When it comes to convertibles, Dodge has 'em... in spades. These are just two of them.

The differences? Dart, the Dodge on top, is a compact. And if you think it doesn't look compact, here are a few other surprises: It doesn't sit, ride or take off like most compacts! Dart's the large economy size compact. Roomy. Powerful. Nifty. Yet thrifty.

How about the Polara, below it? Yeah, how about that. Full vinyl upholstery. A snap down center armrest in front. A selection of power plants few cars at the price can come close to. Price? That's the kicker! This full-size Dodge is priced model for model with Ford and Chevy.

Go see 'em. Full-size Dodge. Compact Dart. We'll bet dollars to doughnuts, you'll buy one.

Cy Barrett Says

Art Student Salesman

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR READERS: Rodger Lang is a modest, fired-up art major at Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa. Recently, I learned of a one-man art show he was staging at the school and contacted him to bring you his story. Thought you'd like this glimpse into the business of being an art student.

CY

DEAR CY: I am planning on a career in teaching art at a college. I'll need at least a master's degree to get into college teaching and prefer to have a master of fine arts degree. (It requires an additional year's work.) My major in graduate school will be ceramics, and I'm hoping to get started in glass blowing. This one-man show came about through a change in the college requirements for an art major. Last year it was added for all art majors corresponding to the written thesis requirement in other fields and is a lot of work. Since June, I have been working on the paintings, but could not get to the ceramics because I didn't have the equipment.

So, all but about 12 of the 70 pieces in the show have been done since school resumed in September. All but right of my ceramic pieces in the show were sold at the opening. My paintings haven't sold. I tell myself I didn't expect them to because most of the students and professors can't afford them.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Wednesday, March 18, 1964
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Among firsts: cooperative attitude, willingness to put forth the effort that makes the difference and accuracy. Day under strong influence.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You are developing or falling back on your old, not standing still. Review your interests; should some be eliminated, new ones inserted? THINK.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — How do efforts at planning and being carried out stack up with expectations? Are there loopholes where good intentions fell through? Get on, stay on, right track.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Concentration in its place; emotions correctly checked; all action derived from intelligent, responsible reasoning not impulse or emotion.

July 22 to August 23 (Leo) — Never say quit, nor feel your confidence or striving are lost. Some reason is always in the background. AFR in the making; will be greater after awhile.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Note Gemini and Capricorn. Indications similar today, and note the will to succeed backed by accurate knowledge can surmount tremendous obstacles.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Better than an every-day day, but it needs YOUR cooperation. Establish strong foundations where you intend to build lasting monuments. Shun inferiority feeling.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Give four, forgetting and lack of encouragement the turnabout, repaying them with courtesies of reasoned convictions and recognition of urgencies.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Be a seeker for a true seeker. Your action can be well defined, very able if you omit over-absorption of personal desires.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — The sharp word of abrupt act are out; they are not like the real you. Differing factions at work tend to confuse in part; steady meanings well.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — You can cut clean through the maze of objections and surmount conditions if you remain poised and keep your tasks and interests distinct, undisturbed by the devious.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Pick up loose ends, finish what you start, don't take on more than you can do well; be precise, steady. Think about what you should and can do.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Sensitive, broad-minded, sometimes drifting. A natural sympathizer, wholehearted companion. You need ambitious, cheerful associates who have faith in what they can accomplish, something you must keep developing. Do not believe because an argument is well put, die for truths. Shun spasmodic excitement; keep desire as possible for health's sake. Sometimes too modest, rare, speak on as often as you feel necessary, with a little persistence. Your place (NOT) membership number and ability to gather knowledge enables you to avoid foolish steps. Reliability outstanding; accurate, imaginative, story-teller, historian. Falsifying in the hard cases.

our town bought an antique car from a farmer for $600. It was in fair condition, but he reconditioned it and sold the shiny jalopy for $1,200. My third husband and I are trying to make a go of things. We find travelling by car something we both like and are looking for a way to make spare-time travel self-financing. Would looking for antique automobiles in out-of-the-way places and reselling them be profitable for us?

SUSAN

DEAR SUSAN: Cow barns, hen houses and farm machinery sheds have been picked over too conscientiously by antique auto nuts. Go after four-poster beds!

When the craze has subsided, keep husband No. 3, but shift to what's new. "Insider's News-letter" says, "If bed buying is symptomatic of the times, then four-posters are in. According to reports from Europe, auctioneers can't meet the demand for genuine antique four-posters. According to sleep expert Norman Dine of New York: 'Early American four-poster beds are selling like crazy.'"

CY

DEAR CY: You quoted a reader recently who complained about receiving solicitations to buy luxury merchandise with his credit card bills. Today's retailer certainly has to step fast to keep ahead of competition from every direction. We writers are now being hit in our quiet retreats. My new box of carbon paper contained an offer to buy stainless steel flatware.

ANOTHER WRITER

DEAR FRIEND:

Where do writers find "quiet retreats"? On my last escape from the office, I skied to the top of a mountain, gazing down into the crystalline white landscape below. The stillness was broken by a voice from over my shoulder which said, "Want to buy a leather wine bottle, Mister?"

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 5. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Historical Society Aids Authors In Palmer Study

EAST STROUDSBURG — As co-sponsor of Dr. Stanley Cohen's visit to East Stroudsburg State College next Monday night, the Monroe County Historical Society has played a major part in the historical research of many authors writing about A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney-general under the President Woodrow Wilson administration.

The curator of the Monroe County Historical Society, Mrs. Elizabeth Walters, said that the historical society's collection of papers and documents on the late A. Mitchell Palmer have been used by Dr. Cohen and others in their research on the political life of Palmer, a former Stroudsburg resident.

Dr. Cohen used the materials during the summers of 1955 and 1959. Jerome Muys also did research on Palmer while a student at Princeton University. Another Princetonian, William Widenar, also did a biographic study of Palmer in 1959.

Philip Lillenthal of Amherst College studied documents at the Historical Museum for his case study of Palmer in 1962.

Early Newspapers Mrs. Walters said that among the papers and documents on A. Mitchell Palmer are early newspapers of Monroe County. Some of these are copies of The Stroudsburg Times; The Monroe Record; The Daily Times; The Times Democrat and The Monroe Record and Times Democrat.

Also on file are copies of the Morning Press (1913-1928); The East Stroudsburg Press and the Jeffersonian (1919-1923); and The Morning Sun (1926-1939).

Continuing, Mrs. Walters noted that the society also holds scrapbooks of the Palmer family that contain the clippings from national newspaper coverage of Palmer's political life.

Being a resident of Monroe County and the outstanding political figure that he was, the life of A. Mitchell Palmer is of interest to national historians and members of the community.

Dr. Cohen's recent book "A. Mitchell Palmer — Politician," published in 1963, is considered an outstanding work on the county's most famous politician. Students and citizens will have an opportunity to hear and talk to Dr. Cohen at East Stroudsburg State College on Monday night in the College Dining Hall.

The dinner is scheduled for 7 p.m. and is open to the public at $2.25 per ticket. Dr. Cohen will present his topic at 8 p.m. Those unable to be present for the dinner may attend the talk at no charge.
